Contract Awarded for New School Building

At last Tuesday's meeting of the trustees of Sunset School the contract for the erection of the new school building, for which bonds in the amount of $50,000 were voted last March, was awarded to Herndon and Finnigan of Sacramento, who were the lowest bidders, thus receiving the contract according to law, which provides for award to the lowest responsible bidder.

There were many other bidders, M. J. Murphy of this city putting in the second lowest bid.

The building will be as near fire-proof as possible, and earthquake-proof as well. The architect, John J. Donovan, has made a special study of earthquake conditions in Santa Barbara. The structure has been planned with these conditions in view.

To come within the bond issue, plus the use of monies in the general fund of the school district, and by eliminating one room, acceptance of the tender of Herndon and Finnigan, about $52,000, was made possible.

Following the approval of the award by the county superintendent of schools and by the district attorney, work of construction will begin.

THE SUNDAY AT-HOME

Tomorrow afternoon, from 3 to 5, the Arts and Crafts is to hold an informal reception and at-home in honor of Cornelius Botke and Jessie Arms Botke, who have recently returned to Carmel after two years in Europe. The reception committee will be composed of artists of the Peninsula. The many friends of the Botkes who are eager to welcome them are cordially invited to attend, as well as others who are interested in the work of artists here. Mr. Botke has a number of sketches he has consented to show, and both he and Mrs. Botke will tell something of their experiences abroad.

Members of the Arts and Crafts are generous in loaning their objects of art for these Sunday afternoon occasions, and for the coming reception Miss L. R. Lichtenthaler is loaning her beautiful collection of Navajo rugs.

Foster Announces All-Star Mikado Cast

A flame-red pagoda stands on the Forest Theater stage where rose the steps of the temple of Artemis whom Iphigenia served in Tauris. Blossoming peach trees flank its entrance, wistaria droops over the walls, paper lanterns swing gayly, and our patient old pines grow just as gravely in Japan as we have seen them grow in Tauris, in Bagdad, in Egypt, in Fairyland itself.

It is interesting, just at this moment when Fenton Foster's production of The Mikado is getting into final shape for next Friday and Saturday, to read in the Saturday Review the following statement of a distinguished London Critic: "A celebrated modern author said that he thought that the most permanent and enduring achievement of the Victorian age would be neither that of Tennyson, Browning, and Swinburne, nor that of Gladstone, Disraeli, and Parnell, nor of Darwin, Huxley, and Ball, but the operas of Gilbert and Sullivan. I am inclined to agree with him; and I should not be in the least surprised if, in ages to come, people will talk of the age of Gilbert and Sullivan as they talk of the age of Pericles."—Maurice Baring, Punch and Judy and Other Essays.

Aside from the great charm of the opera itself, this production is noteworthy in that it is practically the first musical event of any dimensions on the Forest Theater stage. And it is extraordinary that even Mr. Foster, with his famous energy and gift for organization, has been able to fill so large a cast without going beyond the confines of the Peninsula. A glance at the list of principals shows an interesting mingling of names new and old:

Nanki Poo, son of the Mikado, Carol Sandholdt, Monterey.
Yum Yum, ward of Ko Ko, Marion Hawley, the Presidio.
Pitti Sing, her sister, Doris Wood, Pacific Grove.
Peep Bo, another sister, Quinette Cowan.

Pooh Bah, Lord High Most Everything, George M. Dorwart.
Pish Tush, a Nobleman, Samuel L. Ethridge, the Presidio.
Ko Ko, Lord High Executioner, John R. Pavilla, Pacific Grove.

The Mikado of Japan, John N. Hilliard.
Katisha, his daughter-in-law elect, Eleanor Watson, Monterey.

The Mikado's Personal Attendant, Stuart A. Work, Pacific Grove.
Ko Ko's Body Guard, Earl Breaux.

John Hilliard's appearance as The Mikado will delight his admirers. His Hadj in Kismet, his Foffy in the Night at an Inn, his Chorus in the Yellow Jacket, are all vividly remembered; in fact there is no name more interwoven with Carmel's dramatic history, as actor and as producer. This is the play for some years.

George Dorwart's splendid and sonorous voice will be heard to great advantage in the ludicrous part of Pooh Bah. The Presidio is represented by the pure lyric soprano of Marion Hawley, and by Samuel Ethridge's competent handling of Pish Tush. And John R. Pavilla is the Man of Mystery from Pacific Grove. A surprise awaits the audience—but we are allowed to say no more.

The other new comers we shall hear with interest. The chorus is forty-four strong, well-drilled and keen. The orchestra is rehearsing daily, the set grows steadily, and so does the interest of the Peninsula and the advance sale of tickets. This is an ambitious attempt and well worth hearty support, not only because it is going to be enjoyable itself, but because of what it may lead to in the future.

Tickets are on sale at the Palace Drug stores here and in Monterey. Mrs. E. W. Mascord, Miss Elizabeth Mascord, and Miss Agnes Knight are occupying the Coleman cottage on Carmelo street. The two former are from San Jose; the latter from Los Angeles.

Comment Concerning Coming Carmel Circus

Those who were here two years ago will remember with delight the inauguration of the Carmel Circus. Mrs. Phil K. Gordon first conceived the idea, and with the very material assistance of George Kegg, it was carried to a happy and frolicsome conclusion.

This year, Mrs. Gordon and Perry Newberry make up the energetic team that will probably produce the most interesting and spectacular entertainment that Carmel has yet seen.

The tourist arriving in Carmel alights from his machine, stretches himself and says to the nearest shopkeeper:

"And where are the writers and artists?"

One nice little Nebraska school teacher recently asked:

"Do you have a special district for them? Are they segregated?"

"Oh, no," was the airy response.

"We let them live all around."

Perry Newberry guarantees to pull all the talented ones out of their hiding places and put them on exhibit in the Carmel Circus next Saturday. The home people may gloat and the strangers may look their fill. Many startling—and unique—characters of history and literature will be represented, including a more or less faithful characterization of a bobbed-hair Lady Godiva. Writers, sculptors, painters, retired business men, actors, riding-masters, restaurant keepers, will all be there. They will be rampant lions, couchant tigers and educated bears.

The parade will form in front of Byron Newell's and will march down Ocean avenue to Pine Inn and pass in review before John Jordan. If he's satisfied with it, they will march back on the other side of the street and the circus will then happen.

Our best Hootchie-cootchie dancer was formerly known as Carmel's "Little Egypt." During the recent Santa Barbara disturbance, she made a trip down there, parked her car and watched State street give a sinuous wriggle up and down its back bone, then tie itself into a double bow-knot, and "Little Egypt" turned round and came right home again. Now they call her "Little Earthquake." She will perform a classic interpretative dance pantomime illustrating the tortuous writhings of an earthquake.

Thomas Reardon will neglect Carmel's baths and kitchen sinks for the day and will enact his favorite role—that of playing the front legs of the elephant. They're going to make it a sway-back elephant by getting Richard Hoagland to play the back legs. Might even be a good giraffe. William Silva, the artist, is designing a batiked elephant hide.

Perry Newberry found on checking up the list of circus performers, that everybody in Carmel excepting Brownie Overstreet and Alfred Fraser are in the cast. Well, don't we got to have a audience?

Bill Frolli is going to run a side-show. He will exhibit an auto with the engine missing. Ivy wants to know how the auto could run without the engine. Of course, Bill doesn't want to of-fender, but he says the engine don't make no differential.

Phil Gordon, Ray DeYoe and John Jordan refuse to be marshalls unless they can wear their Spanish suits. We don't see why they shouldn't. They look just like a circus. It has been suggested that the Salinas Rodeo send over one of their stunts, but no self-respecting cowboy would compete with Fenton Foster's sombrero.

The sawdust is being collected by Fred Leidig. When the supply from his wood yard gives out, he can go around and gather up the sawdust at the base of the trees killed by the borers.

We saw Barney Segal behind the bars in the bank the other day and

Kuster Discards "Bag of Tricks"

The second six-weeks' session of the summer studio of the Theatre of the Golden Bough is now in progress, under the direction of Edward Kuster, with Betty Merle Horst assisting. The plays in preparation are Finoa McLeod's poetic drama, "The Immortal Hour"; Hermann Sudermann's delicate comedy, "The Faraway Princess"; and the uproarious bit of "scrambled history" by Leonid Andrieff entitled "The Sabine Women."

With almost a hundred applications for enrollment on file, the director of the studio has adhered strictly to the announced rule that a maximum of fifteen students would be accepted for each session. The members of the current group are as follows: Helen Nelson, Bernice Bidwell, Gladys Vander Roest, George Ball, Kissam Johnson, Ruth Kuster, Katharine Renshaw, William Shepard, Gwyneth Willner, Helen Wirt, Jadwiga Noskowiak, Gertrude Noskowiak, Serena Seymour, Hilma Jameson, Elizabeth Whitney.

Daily morning classes in diction, voice production, gesture and stage deportment, are followed by individual coaching in the afternoons and general rehearsals in the evenings.

"My summer studio is not, primarily at least, a professional training-school," said Mr. Kuster on being asked for a statement of the aims of the studio. "There has been more or less nonsense spoken and written on this subject. The summer work in my theatre is mainly directed to the study and development of a technique of acting and stage settings appropriate to the simplicity and sincerity of the type of theatre which has discarded old-fashioned professional hokum and has thrown away the 'bag of tricks.' Such a theatre may be either professional or amateur."

"But as Stanislawski found out in Russia; and as Maurice Browne and Ellen van Volkenburg learned when they founded the Little Theatre in Chicago years ago, simplicity and sincerity are not enough in the theatre. Nothing can be said convincingly, it is true, that is not felt deeply. But neither can a thing be said convincingly that is not said audibly and beautifully. And it requires experience to say audibly and beautifully to an audience what we have to say. The technique which the New Theatre is in search of is simply the experience which will teach us to say convincingly the things we feel deeply."

"The Little Theatres which have sought to get on without technique have merely ploughed the sand. Their slipshod acting and diction have in fact brought about a definite reaction toward the commercial theatre, which, whatever its faults, is at least at infinite pains to get its results."

"My aim, then, is to maintain the freshness and spontaneity and sincerity of the amateur, but to weld it to a stage technique that will project these qualities to an audience. If, as has been generally agreed, 'Merton of the Movies,' challenging comparison at every moment with the professional production, was successful, it was because we have begun to find ourselves in the new technique, and in methods of imparting it."

thought how well he'd look in an animal cage, with Charlie Berkey feeding him peanuts from the outside.

Mayor Bill Kibbler insists on wearing his "Mystic Shrine" regalia, but Marie Gordon says that the smell of the moth balls will make the horses sneeze.

Amongst other dainty refreshment booths, there will be an animated hot dog stand. The ladies in-charge say they will furnish good barkers for the show.

Bobby Norton is to defend the boxing championship for Carmel. Dear me! Such a nice boy. And he SO peaceable looking!

One of the side-shows will exhibit Itchi-Scratchi, the Japanese giant from the "Mikado."

ART NOTES

CARMEL PAINTINGS AT ELDER GALLERY

M. DeNeale Morgan of Carmel is exhibiting a collection of her paintings at the Paul Elder gallery Monday, July 20 to August 15. The collection consists of characteristic coast scenes on the Monterey peninsula; the twisted old cypress, the white sand dunes varied with the color of Lupin, poppies and other coast flowers, the blue waters of Carmel bay, in seventeen paintings in tempera, seven monotypes and six etchings.

AFFAIRS OF ANATOLE

Of interest to Carmel artists will be the description of "The Affairs of Anatole," the original and much talked of picture of Robert Reid of Colorado Springs, which are now on exhibition in Chappell House, Denver, Colorado. The critic for the Rocky Mountain News says:

"It is almost superfluous to say that the exhibition of Robert Reid, Colorado Springs artist, which has been on view at Chappell House for the past week, is proving to be one of the most popular hung by the Denver Art Museum for many months. Perhaps the artist would be more interested to know, for an artist of his standing and experience must know instinctively when he has done something that will be popular with the general public, that the artists of Denver are deriving a great deal of pleasure from the 'Affairs of Anatole.' Conservative or modernist must admire the facility with which Mr. Reid handles his brush. The technique that has been his from the days when he made his first important impression at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago, and which has made him an outstanding American painter for a generation, is especially fine in the current exhibition."

THE WALKER COLLECTION

Professor Eugene Nauhaus, director of art at the University of California, in speaking of the complete Walker collection at the Legion of Honor Palace in San Francisco said:

"As compared with the leading public gallery, it ranks among the greatest in comprehensiveness, variety of subjects and artistic quality. The tawdry, gaudy or sensational, so often met with in American and foreign collections, finds no place here."

The exhibit at the California Palace of the Legion of Honor has been in process of installation for three months under the direction of Mrs. Cornelia B. Sage Quinton. It includes 128 of the world's greatest paintings, thirty-one Indian subjects and a display of jades, porcelains, pottery and ancient jewelry. The subjects selected for exhibition in San Francisco were picked with great care to make it thoroughly representative not of the entire collection but of the history of art.

Among the paintings are pictures by Sir Joshua Reynolds, Sir Thomas Lawrence, Gainsborough, Peter Lely, Constable, Turner, Kneller and Cotes of the English School; by Tintoretto, Del Piombo, Del Sarto and Carlo Dolci of the Italian school; works of the Dutch and Flemish painters, Rembrandt, Hals, Bol, Cuyp and Van Dyck; paintings by the early Spanish schools — Murillo, Cano, Sanchez-Coello and others; early French works by Lorraine, Poussin and Coypel; a wonderful group of Barbizons (men of 1830), such as Corot, Troyon, Diaz, Daubigny, Millet, Dupré and Harpignies; four wonderful Cazins and some of the best of the Zeims, together with pictures by the best American artists.

EXHIBIT OF REPRODUCTIONS

During the first week of next month, there will open in the auditorium of the new wing of the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum in San Francisco, the Velasquez exhibit — forty-one reproductions of the master's works — brought to this country by the Spanish Artistic Mission for the Exhibition of Velasquez' Paintings.

This mission is headed by the noted young Spanish artist, Jose Moya del Pino, who himself painted the Velasquez reproductions. In these copies, Moya del Pino has been credited by every critic with catching not alone the line, color and lighting of the originals but the very essence of the great master's spirit.

It took Moya del Pino fully seven years — what with study and active painting — to prepare this exhibit, and it is the direct outgrowth of his desire to present to the peoples of other lands than his own the opportunity to see and study the Velasquez paintings that hang in the Prado Museum in Madrid.

The paintings are now being shipped across the continent.

In addition to the Velasquez copies, there will also be seen several of Moya del Pino's original portraits — those of the King of Spain and the Duke of Alba, the patrons of the mission.

The exhibit will be a purely non-profit venture, and will be open, free, to all who wish to see them.

INNOCENCE ABROAD

The following letter from Junior Flanner, who is in Nice, has been received by Mrs. Minna Steel Harper:

We are far away but Sylvia and I often talk about the Forest Hill School. We have not been in a school over here yet, but daddy is with us now and he is looking for a tutor to come every day to teach us French. Then when we begin to go to school we won't have to go in the baby class, as children do who can't speak French.

It is so hot in Nice that Sylvia and I almost live in the Mediterranean Sea. Charlotte hasn't a bathing suit yet so she can't go in with us, but she has a cunning little white tooth and is beginning to creep. She can say Mam-ma, and some other things that we don't understand. When we get back to Carmel we will bring her to school with us.

We have a lovely apartment with an elevator, and a maid that doesn't speak English. She makes lots of good desserts for Sylvia and me, but I often wish I had some of Basham's sandwiches and nice cake.

Daddy was surprised when he came down here and found I had learned to swim, so he swam out to the raft with me and I had a life belt on. I can swim without a life belt, but it was too far out to the raft to go without one.

This is my address until the 1st of October, then we are going to Venice and Florence and maybe to Switzerland.

Give my love to the children in school and to Miss Spicker.

Mrs. Mabel Gray Young entertained at a progressive supper and music party Monday evening. Her guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wickman, Mrs. Roberta Leitch and Mr. and Mrs. James Hopper. Later the party motored to Mrs. Leitch's studio in the old Stevenson house in Monterey, where they enjoyed "music by candle light." Mr. Wickman is a pianist of note from New York. He expects to be in Carmel until September this trip. As he is building a studio at Carmel Highlands, we may hope to have him with us a part of each year.

WISH THEM BON VOYAGE

The Dorwarts are leaving us on August 2. In the midst of their preparations for departure many social events have been given in their honor.

Last Thursday evening, the Monterey Lodge of Elks gave a farewell party, in the nature of a stag and smoker, in honor of their former Exalted Ruler. About two hundred were present. The guest of honor was the recipient of a beautiful bediamonded Elks lapel pin.

On Saturday evening of next week, Mr. Dorwart will sing the part of Foo Bah in the Forest Theater production of the "Mikado." This will be "worth going miles to" hear.

Tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, Mr. Dorwart will preach a farewell sermon at All Saints Chapel. All parishoners and friends are invited to be present. There will be special music.

Last Thursday evening, at the Mission Tea House, a Regimental Dinner was given for forty officers of the 346th Field Artillery. The table decorations were red, white and blue, and the walls of the house were decorated with guerdons of the regiment.

The recently appointed Commanding General of the National Guard, Colonel Ernestine V. Smith was among the guests.

BACK TO YOUTH

THE managers of the Carmel Circus request the merchants to decorate their shop-fronts before next Saturday. Bunting, crepe paper, flags, flowers, shrubs, anything that will lend extra gaiety to the occasion. Let it be a real festival with circus colors everywhere. Let's wear our gaudiest clothes, drink lemonade, get up on the top row of bleachers and throw peanut shells on the people down below. Let's tease the animals, lick ice cream cones and munch hot dog sandwiches. Let's all go back a few years and try being kids for the day.

CONSTRUCTIVE AMERICANISM

NEWSPAPERS and magazines carry discussions on various ideas connected with the plan of a World Court. Generally speaking, the press of our country is inclined to favor any international policy that is of a constructive character.

There is little disposition to condemn movements like the World Court, a Disarmament Conference, and plans for stabilizing international industrial and commercial conditions.

Few political leaders go to the extreme of advocating commercial isolation of our country. Press reports indicate that there is an underlying sentiment, possibly tinged with idealism, that favors our lending a hand in the economic restoration of any of the European countries.

One of the great by-products of the World War is a lessening of racial prejudices and more of the helpful big brother feeling toward all foreign nations.

CITY PROGRESS

WITH the increase of Carmel's population—permanent population—necessity for many new things has arisen. These necessities, especially in a commercial way, have been supplied—in some cases, over-supplied.

What the residents as a whole are particularly interested in are the decided-upon and proposed improvements of a public or semi-public nature. These may be summarized as follows: The new public school building, the new telephone building, the proposed extension of Ocean avenue, the pending improvement of Seventh, Ninth and Twelfth avenues, the opening of the Hatton land, the proposed civic center, the proposed inauguration of a bus line to the beach, and the adoption of a city manager ordinance.

We are moving right along—evoluting, as it were.

THE ROOSEVELT SHRINE

THE Roosevelt association, through Herman Hagedorn, the director of the organization, has made known that the site for the Roosevelt memorial in Washington will be south of the White House, and not far from the Lincoln memorial. This will intensify the beautiful scenic effect already accomplished in the vista from the portico of the Capitol, which takes in the Grant statue, the Washington obelisk, the Lincoln memorial and the Arlington background, where rises the amphitheatre near the Unknown Soldier's tomb. The memorial association seeks to perpetuate Roosevelt's ideals in a way that is most unique.

A motion picture library, the first of its kind, of 25,000 feet of Roosevelt scenes and prints, has been collected. It will be used in public school work, thus fascinating the fancy of childhood with a hero who was erstwhile cowboy, big game hunter and President of the United States.

EXPERT ON BEAUTY CULTURE TO GIVE ADDRESS

Halldis Stabell, the Norwegian expert on scientific-aesthetic physical education, will be hostess to the women of the Monterey Peninsula at the Theatre of the Golden Bough on next Wednesday afternoon, when she will give an address on scientific body remodeling. This address will be illustrated by moving pictures.

Miss Stabell is already internationally known for her distinctive scientific work in physical education. She is the director of Institutes for the "Renaissance of the Body" in both Stockholm and Christiania, and has taught and lectured on scientific health and beauty culture before the prominent medical associations of Paris, Berlin and Budapest, and in San Francisco, where she came but six months ago, direct from her home in Norway.

Miss Stabell had been in this country only a few days when the Clinical Society of St. Francis Hospital invited her to lecture before them. This lecture made such a profound impression upon her audience that she was asked to repeat it at the general meeting of the County Medical Society of San Francisco. Since then she has been kept busy lecturing and teaching in San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley. She was engaged to give a course of instruction to the teachers of physical culture at the University of California.

The work of Miss Stabell deals at present with women only and is entirely different from any system of physical culture heretofore presented to women in quest of health and beau-

A Pre-Digested Review

I, the writer, was honored by a request from Mr. William Overstreet to act as critic for the concert given by at the Theatre of the Golden Bough, Mrs. Katharine Vander Roest Clarke Sunday, July 26. (The fact that this criticism will go to press some hours in advance of the concert is in strict accord with the policy of Mr. Hearst's leading publications, and is sufficient to justify its appearance at this time.)

It is not, however, the intention of the writer to comment upon any foreign publications in this article, but rather to criticize a paragraph appearing daily on page seven of a certain paper published in Monterey. The sentence in question follows: "Carmel, picturesque town . . . home of the poet, artist, writer, scientist, playwright, and retired business man." It seems but proper, if the editor of the journal in question refuses to recognize Carmel as a music center, that this paragraph be altered to read: "Carmel, picturesque town . . . home of the poet, artist, writer, scientist, retired business man and Katharine Vander Roest Clarke."

Concerning the program, Mrs. Clarke opened her recital with a Brahms Rhapsodie, played as Mrs. Clarke sees fit and therefore played very well. This was followed by the Beethoven Sonata, E flat, the same Sonata that the writer believed he played very well. A splendid Chopin group and a number of modern compositions concluded a program which would delight even the most critical of audiences in the most critical of music centers.

Doubtless, many failed to take advantage of hearing Mrs. Clarke Sunday, and the writer has, therefore, much sympathy to offer and a bit of advice: If the opportunity occurs again, by all means hear Katharine Vander Roest Clarke.—D. A.

ICED DRINKS IN THE SUMMER

On a warm and sultry summer day, there is nothing more refreshing to the mind and to the body than an iced drink. Of course, when such drinks are being used, moderation should be practiced, because if taken in excess or too rapidly, they are liable to be injurious to the stomach. However, when taken in a sensible manner, they are refreshing and beneficial to the fatigued. In the manufacture of these drinks, care should be taken to avoid any combination that may be indigestible or hard to assimilate. The drink should be consumed in a slow and leisurely manner.

The greatest danger present in the use of iced drinks is the one that involves the use of ingredients that are possibly impure or contaminated in any way. This is very liable to happen if the juices that are used are allowed to stand until they become soured and unfit for use, or if the milk or other ingredient used is not strictly fresh. The predisposition of milk to spoil quickly at summer temperatures makes it oftentimes necessary to use evaporated milk, which after all is just pure fresh milk with more than half the water taken away. It is sterile and, therefore, always safe. For use in iced drinks, it is ideal.

Following are several formulas used in the manufacture of iced beverages. If these formulas are followed religiously, the results will be found to be very satisfactory.

Chocolate Malted Milk.

1 cup evaporated milk 1 teaspoonful cocoa
1 cup water 2 teaspoonfuls malted milk

Mix cocoa with water until syrup is obtained. Put all ingredients in Mason jar and shake thoroughly and serve with chopped ice.

Milk Punch.

1 cup evaporated milk 1 tbsp. orange juice
Sugar to suit 1/2 cup water
1 cup tea Small stick cinnamon
2 tbsp. lemon juice 1/2 cup fruit juice (currant or berry preferred)

Boil slowly the cinnamon, a lemon rind and orange rind in water for ten minutes. Strain and when cool add the other ingredients. Place in a Mason fruit jar and shake well. Serve in tall glasses with chopped ice.

Egg Nog.

1 egg 1 1/2 tbsp. powdered sugar
Pinch salt 1/2 cup fruit juice
1/2 cup cold evaporated milk Nutmeg gratings
1/2 cup ice water

Add salt to egg white and beat to a stiff froth. Add the sugar, the well beaten yolk of the egg and the fruit juice and nutmeg. Fill glass with milk and cold water. Sprinkle top with chopped nuts.

AN OLD HOUSE WITH A NEW STORY

By Eunice T. Gray

Just beyond the turn of the highway on Carpenter street where it dips into Carmel by way of Second avenue, there stands a rambling yellow house, whose cordial entrances open both north and south. It is an old timer, built in the eighties by the grand-Caroline Kimball. With respect for mother of the present owner, Miss its traditions and the wish to build upon the substantial old, something sound and new, Miss Kimball has from time to time reconstructed parts of the old house with the hope that it might sometime serve the needs of the new Carmel. Through her innate love of loveliness and fine appreciation of beauty in the home she has at last found the way.

Today the living-rooms from which the partitions have been removed, house an alluring display of porcelains. Against walls covered with gold-washed Chinese paper, on shelves of almond green, sit dishes of every kind. There are entire table sets of English ware, fruit sets of amber glass, plates of lettuce-colored, crystal for salads, gay bowls of Mexican pottery, sober brown tea-pots, quaintly modeled pitchers and piles of plates of smooth, fine Chinese porcelain. At one end of the room a square table is laid for four with a luncheon set from Central Europe, dishes of a warm magenta, veined in violet, an enchanting combination with the damask sheen of the walnut chairs and table that have been door leads to the pond and a bright lightly washed with color. The south garden where are to be found choice pieces of garden pottery and bird-baths of porcelain.

The Carmel home-maker need travel no further to select her table furniture. Carmel, and one for which each article. At last we have a porcelain shop in has been chosen with a wisdom and discrimination possible only to one who has been both a lover and a student of ceramics. Miss Kimball has visited some of the most famous potteries of Europe and has a fine sense of fitness and a knowledge of the value been aided in her selections by a well used of table ware, moreover she has known decorator and The Porcelain Shop contains nothing that is not beautiful, many things that are rare and a well balanced supply of inexpensive and unique dishes.

On the front entrance sits a miniature porcelain elephant. He is a beautiful, deep purple elephant, there are Shop.

Marching between two long lines of school children in Duluth, Minnesota, the officers of the Minnesota Masonic Grand Lodge approached the foundation of the new Denfield High School being erected there, and with appropriate ceremonies, set the cornerstone in place.

Carmel is Rich in Vitamins

PEOPLE of Monterey and Pacific Grove remember the days—not far distant—when they smiled good-naturedly at what they considered Carmel's whimsies. They thought it a peculiar place that did not have as its target a greater population and an industrial growth. In those days they considered material prosperity as the ultimate reflex.

It is different now; and all the Monterey Peninsula respects the nature of the growth of Carmel—which became a large and materially prosperous growth, just because it had something rare to offer and did not merely strive for population and industry.

Carmel has grown remarkably in the last five years. Many people from Monterey and Pacific

Grove have invested in Carmel property—without regrets, as you know. They found the returns from Carmel property "rich in vitamins."

Carmel is a community of manifold distinctions, and it has been these distinctions that regulate Carmel realty values. It is because of those distinctions—never so evident and pronounced as today—that there can be but one Carmel in California—and that Carmel is your neighbor and your opportunity.

Carmel home investors—and the term is here used in its fullest sense—do not need concern themselves with the possibility of declining realty values, because too many people want what Carmel so richly possesses, and which can be found nowhere else.

It has been properly and beautifully laid out.

Then he took up his reeds and began to blow!

Ready to Serve

We are organized for public service; and as part of our obligation we recognize the necessity of being able to meet the demands of the public at any time during the day or night.

This is not such a simple matter as it seems to be at first thought. It means that if a user of our service wants light for only an instant, he must have immediate response to the pressure of a switch.

Gas and electric service must be available not only during the peak periods, when everyone needs them, but at rare intervals at night as well.

Constant attention is essential if we are to maintain adequate service at all times. We welcome your suggestions, and consider a complaint as an INVITATION to improve service with your assistance.

FORESTS

At the request of the forestry officials and others interested in the preservation of forests, several of the largest tobacco manufacturers of the United States are inserting fire warnings in their packages of cigarettes and tobaccos. Literally hundreds of millions of these notices will be distributed throughout the west during the coming summer, and the cost of this propaganda to the tobacco companies in labor and material will reach a very considerable sum. This is a splendid contribution to the cause of forest preservation, but there is a question of whether or not it will be wasted unless active steps are taken to analyze the real causes of forest fires, and to apply corrective remedies.

It is an easy diagnosis to say that a fire originated from some person's carelessness with burning tobacco, but after a white hot blast has reduced all else to ashes it is difficult to understand how a cigar or cigarette butt could remain unburned as evidence. Too great care cannot be exercised in the disposal of burning tobacco, but to ascribe to this cause all forest fires whose origin cannot be otherwise easily ascertained, is to hamper the work of fire prevention by diverting any effort to get at the real cause.

Camp fires get a share of the blame, but probably not in accord with their due. Here again the evidence is wiped out by the forest fire itself, but a camp fire—even a small one—burns long enough and hot enough to dry out and set to smouldering the damp leaf-mould beneath the surface. Many a conscientious camper pours water on his fire and thinks it is out, but unless the soil is thoroughly soaked, the chances are that enough fire remains in the rotten wood and leaves to come to life after the water poured on to quench it has been dried out. A rigorous campaign of educating every person crossing forest boundaries, as to where it is safe to build fires, and how to thoroughly quench them might do some real good. The criminal carelessness and wilfully malicious individuals who cause forest fires are doubtless too few in number to account for the prevalence of fires during the past few years.

It is questionable whether enough attention is given to the natural causes of forest fires—spontaneous combustion, lightning, broken bits of glass, which as the earth rotates brings the sun's rays into focus upon dry grass and leaves. These are causes which cannot be corrected by legislation or education. They require persistent watchfulness.

Where else have we such vast wealth as in our forests, and yet we guard them with only a handful of forestry officials who, zealous as they are, are powerless to cope with the situation. Forest fires will occur whether caused by man or nature, and the great treasure house of our forests should be supplied, during the summer months, with a sufficient guard to discover fires and quench them before they get beyond control.

Our forests should be guarded from other destructive agencies as well as from fire which, after all, is only one of a long list. The greatest devastation is caused by our lumbermen. Granted that timber is given to us to use, it is as certain that it is not given us to waste, and the laying bare of our forests, old trees and young, mature and immature, with no attempt at replacement is a crime against nature and posterity. Re-forestation has long been a subject of discussion, but and loggers are compelled to replant young trees for the old ones they cut, unless talk is crystalized into action we may, even in our own time, see our timber resources annihilated and our water-sheds destroyed.

GOLDEN BOUGH TO PRESENT
"THE IMMORTAL HOUR"

On Sunday night, August 9, the Theatre of the Golden Bough will present the beautiful poetic drama of Florence McLeod, "The Immortal Hour," with music written for the play based on ancient and hitherto unpublished Irish themes. In this play a modern poet has achieved a drama with a Greek heart, so to speak. In beautiful phrase and setting, eloquent voice is given to the two elemental emotions underlying Celtic drama, that of the inevitableness of Destiny and that of tragical loveliness. It is believed that the production in Carmel will be the first performance in America of this play, which represents the full flowering of the Gaelic Renaissance in literature.

SHOW MAKES ANNUAL VISIT IN MONTEREY

Amusement lovers in search for novelties will find them aplenty when the Foley and Burk shows throw open their doors to the public next Tuesday in Monterey.

The trained animal features, particularly, have been responsible for no end of favorable criticism by the many patrons of the all-feature circus. King Dodo, the giant gorilla, under the direction of his tutor, Captain Irvin, has been trained to a high degree of performance, dines with his master, using knife and fork with much the same ease and grace that is expected from the human family. The man-ape does, sometimes, forget himself and absolutely disregards all table etiquette, and during these periods presents a most excellent imitation of a sword-swallower.

The big simian is also considerable of an athlete and acrobat, doing such stunts as somersaults, hand-stands, head-spins and other difficult feats as expertly as the most seasoned human performer.

Mohamid, the Arabian horse that computes difficult mathematical problems is another unusually high class animal artist, as is also his diminutive Shetland, who slams the pigskin with playmate, Dodger, the football kicking Madam Wilkins' macaws, parrots accuracy and enthusiasm. and cockatoos offer an exceptionally distinctive and unusually novel educated bird performance. James Dobbs' high-school horses and ponies are other examples of results that can be obtained through kindness and patience.
